Biographical Note

The NSW Bookstall Company was founded by Henry Lloyd in 1879. Alfred Cecil Rowlandson bought the business after Lloyd's death in 1897 and led the Company into an extremely successful foray of mass market paperback publishing. It published Australian popular fiction and postcards, operated bookshops, circulating libraries and a newsagency distribution. Sales figures illustrate the Company's success, between 1904 and 1922 it produced and sold 4-5 million books.
