PLEASE NOTE YOU CAN ONLY EXPORT 1 RECORD AT A TIME and your citations will need to be manually checked to see if they have been imported correctly.

1. Make sure your Endnote library is open and minimised
2. From the Google Scholar Homepage (http://scholar.google.com.au)
3. Conduct your search
4. Under each record there will be Cite link. You will need to click on this for each citation you want to export.

   !Example citation

4. A window will open. Choose Import into Endnote. Tick the box underneath so that Google Scholar will remember your preference for future exports during this session. You may need to refresh the search results page to apply your preferences after closing the Cite window.

   !Import options

5. Select Open and the citation will be imported into your Endnote library. If your Endnote is not already open, you may need to select your Endnote Library and then your references will be transferred. Please check your references to make sure all the elements of the citation were transferred over.
6. For future references during this session, click on the Import into Endnote link under each reference then follow step 5 above.

Need further Assistance? Please contact your Faculty Liaison Librarian

Last Updated 16/7/13 MHarrison

Y:\All Library Staff\EndNote\Libguide\Documents